IS THERE A HEAVEN? NEWSPAPERS ARE ASKING

In his Sunday political speech, Premier Aberhart expressed pleasure in his belief that there will be no newspapers in Heaven, and that newspapermen can look for other jobs. This is probably true, but it is probable that political opportunists will have to do likewise, as according to tradition, a certain prominent political opportunist was once ejected from there.—Macleod Gazette.

The Lethbridge Herald remarks: They say the press is unfair. It is fair enough at any rate to publish with prominent display headings the attacks made upon it. It doesn't hide the criticism that is made of it.

ALAN GILLIES PASSES

A cloud of gloom enshrouded The Pass on Saturday morning last, when news spread of the death of Alan, thirteen and a half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gillis, following but a brief illness.

Alan was taken ill during Christmas week, and the cause of his illness baffled six or seven physicians. Following his death, however, it was discovered that the source of the trouble was rheumatism in the leg marrow.

Alan was one of the cleverest pupils of the local school, and at the young age of 13½ was in Grade IX.

Funeral took place on Monday morning. Following funeral mass at St. Anne's church, the remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery.

The Enterprise joins with the public in expressing sincere sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Gillis in the great loss they have been called upon to bear.

FORMER PASS OLD-TIMER PASSES AWAY AT ALEXO

A former old-timer of this district passed away at Alexo, Alberta, on Sunday, in the person of David Davidson, aged fifty-eight.

Mr. Davidson for quite a number of years held an official position with the West Canadian Collieries at Bellevue, later moving to Coleman to accept the post of superintendent at the McGillivray mine. Several years ago he left Coleman for the northern part of the province, taking over a mine at Alexo, west of Edson.

He is survived by one son and one daughter.

The remains were shipped from Alexo to Coleman, and interment took place yesterday afternoon, the remains being laid to rest beside those of his wife, who predeceased him a number of years ago in the Blairmore Protestant cemetery.

A horseradish pot put into water will sprout and make an attractive table decoration.

MR. SCOTT'S RESIGNATION

Correspondence Between Mr. Scott and the Deputy Attorney General

(Calgary Herald)

Editor, the Herald:

I beg to hand you herewith for publication correspondence between myself and the Attorney-General's Department of the Province of Alberta, relative to the announcement made January 6, of my resignation.

Yours very truly,

H. G. SCOTT,
Calgary, January 7, 1936.
Government of the Province of Alberta,

Dept. of the Attorney-General,
Edmonton, Dec. 12, 1935.

Dear Mr. Scott:
The report in the Calgary Albertan of the 9th instant of your address to the Calgary Board of Trade has been brought to the attention of the executive council.

I am directed by the Acting President of the Council to inform you that it is not considered advisable that, so long as you are a judicial officer under salary from the Government of the Province, you should give public expression to the views referred to in this report; nor that you should address public or semi-public gatherings in respect of matters of political significance such as the international situation in Europe, or the Far East, or the Italo-Ethiopian war, etc.

The Council fully appreciates the careful study you have made of international problems, but fears that your usefulness and effectiveness as a magistrate may be impaired if you give public expression to your opinions regarding these subjects which, of necessity, are of a controversial nature.

Yours faithfully,

GEO. B. HENWOOD,
Deputy Attorney-General.

H. G. Scott, Esq.,
Police Magistrate, Calgary, Alta.
The Deputy Attorney-General,
Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Henwood:

With reference to your letter to me dated 12th December, 1935, I shall be glad if you will convey the following reply to the Executive Council.

I have been a police magistrate in Alberta for nearly ten years. During the whole of that time I have on various occasions given lectures or addresses to different associations, clubs or meetings in Canada. These addresses had nothing whatever to do with party politics in Alberta or the Dominion of Canada, but dealt either with past history or present situations in Europe observed by me during visits there. The Government of Alberta and the Attorney-General's Department were well aware of these addresses, and found no fault with them.

The Council knows that Premier Aberhart, while a public servant under salary from the Calgary School Board, delivered a continued series of public addresses on highly controversial subjects concerned with politics in Alberta, and that neither he nor his supporters felt that his usefulness and effectiveness as a teacher and public servant were impaired by his doing so.

The Council will hardly maintain that there is less need of impartiality or discretion in the case of the principal of a large city high school than in that of a police magistrate in the same city.

It seems, therefore, difficult to understand why it should be regarded as proper for Mr. Aberhart—as he then was—to deliver these controversial political speeches, and improper for me to give occasional addresses on European affairs to such non-political bodies as the Calgary Board of Trade or the Canadian Clubs.

I have, therefore, to inform the Executive Council that I decline to

THE PATRIOT'S SOB

(With Apologies to Sir Walter Scott and Mae West)

Hoarse! for local talent will soon be "on the air". A bunch are due for Lethbridge, with dozens more to spare. They'll titillate the air-waves, and they don't care a rap. For General Depression—for they are "on the map."

With clarinet and fiddle, full range of vocal chords; Piano-accordions, a pleasing change affords; A throbbing "uke" and tap-dance, and "hot" harmonica; And our favorite from Bellevue will twang his ol' guitar.

Now, sob, dear friends, for Hillcrest—the judges passed us by. While Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue, erstwhile they "clorify". Breathes there a man who reads this, whose soul is now so dead To let this go unchallenged—the stigma's on his head.

For us poor "dumb-bell" artists, no minstrel raptures swell Our reputations' bustled, for no-one marked us well. We drink our bitter cup, sir—unbanned and unshag— Down, down to dust, the vilest, from whence we mortals sprang.

High though our music titles, and proud our townsfolk's name; Boundless though our fiddles, as any wish our claim; Our spirit's doubly-dying, our hearts within us burned, Our fondest hopes went haywire when home our footsteps turned.

All in "self" centered, our "artists" faced the "mike" In Sunday-best apparel—an "impression" for to strike. Despite our local "standing", despite our power and pelf— The judges "ronged" our efforts, and left us "on the shelf".

Then shed a tear for Hillcrest, ye judges, if ye can. A tear-drop sure can lighten the most dejected man. And if you stick together, "in toto" one and all, We'll come sometime and see you at the "Festival" in the Fall.

—GONGA DIN, Hillcrest

"THE GOOD NEIGHBOR"

Washington, D.C., Jan. 4.—The policy of the "Good Neighbor" amongst nations of North and South America, President Roosevelt declared in his message to the United States congress, is no longer a hope, but a fact, active, present, pertinent and effective.

"At no time," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "in the four and a half centuries of modern civilization in the Americas, has there existed—in any year, any decade, or any generation in all that time—a greater spirit of mutual understanding, of common helpfulness, and of devotion to the ideals of self-government than exists today in the 21 American republics and their neighbor, the Dominion of Canada."

Murray Byers, of Camrose, Alberta, was a visitor in town over the week end, and returned Sunday to Halifax, where he is a student in pharmacy at the Dalhousie University—Truro News.

Charles Sartoris, proprietor of Blairmore Motors, motored to Edmonton over the week end with his son, who is attending Alberta University. Mr. Sartoris returned to the South Alberta capital on Tuesday evening.

comply with this injunction.

Yours faithfully,

H. G. SCOTT,
Police Magistrate,
Government of the Province of Alberta,

Dept. of the Attorney-General,
Edmonton, Jan. 3, 1936.

Dear Mr. Scott:

At your request I have brought to the attention of the Executive Council your letter to me of the 25th ultimo.

I am instructed by the Council to inform you that inasmuch as you are unwilling to accept the direction given to you in my letter of the 12th ultimo, it is expected that you will immediately tender your resignation of your appointment as Police Magistrate.

Yours faithfully,

GEO. B. HENWOOD,
Deputy Attorney-General.

H. G. Scott, Esq.,
Police Magistrate, Calgary, Alta.
Police Magistrate's Office,
Calgary, Jan. 4, 1936.

Dear Mr. Henwood:

I have your letter of 3rd January intimating the demand of the Executive Council for my resignation at Police Magistrate. I beg herewith to tender my resignation, and at the same time to register an emphatic protest at the manner in which this has been obtained.

Yours faithfully,

H. G. SCOTT.

MAN CHARGED WITH KIDNAPPING RELEASED

The following from the Los Angeles Examiner will be of interest locally, since the little child Thompson is a great grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, of the Bellevue Inn and together with her parents' elder sister visited Bellevue and Blairmore during the past year for the golden wedding celebration.

"Pale and visibly shaken, John Brueche, 37-year-old German blacksmith, heard himself accused of attempted kidnapping of Beverly Jean Thompson, 9 years of age.

"According to police reports and Beverly Jean's story, she accompanied by her four-year-old-sister Phyllis were enroute to their home from West Adams boulevard market.

"Beverly Jean said a man stepped from behind a building at the corner of Burnside and Adams and grabbed her, stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth and attempted to force her into his car. She said he grabbed her by the throat before she could scream but her sister Phyllis screamed and beat him with her doll until his leg came off, and then he drove off in his car.

"Brueche was arrested at his home, after police received a license number of an automobile first registered to Thomas Bennett, who heard the child's screams. He denied the accusation.

"According to Capt. Ralph Davis Brueche admitted that he was talking to the children and stuffed the handkerchief into the girl's mouth when she screamed because he feared residents would believe he was harming the child, but denied he intended to kidnap her."

Later reports stated that Brueche had been acquitted of the charge by the court. It just represents another example of how justice is meted out in the U.S.A.

The following names were discovered missing from the May and Simister lists of floral tributes in our last issue: May's—Our Darling wreath from Mother, Daddy, Alan, Iris and Jewel; Grandmother and Uncle Byron, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hutton, Bellevue; Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Robert; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Manson, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans. Simister's—S. Ennis and Mr. and Mrs. J. McPhail.

People in this district in particular, and throughout the province generally, will be keenly interested in the correspondence leading to the resignation of Mr. H. G. Scott as police magistrate in the city of Calgary. The correspondence appeared in last Saturday's Calgary Herald, and is reprinted by us for the benefit of those who may have missed it. The matter referred to appears in another column.

ROYAL BANK CALENDAR DEPICTS OPENING CAN- ADA'S FIRST RAILROAD

Was Canada's first railroad opened in 1836 or 1837? Were the cars hauled by a locomotive or by horses on the inaugural run? How big was the locomotive and did it break down or not?

These and many similar questions, which have centred around the opening of Canada's first railroad a century ago, find their answer in a new calendar just issued by The Royal Bank of Canada. Executed by Sheriff Scott, one of Canada's foremost painters of historic subjects, this year's calendar picture depicts the colorful scene at Laprairie, when the first train of the Champlain & St. Lawrence Railroad steamed out on her inaugural run.

On many important aspects of this opening ceremony, on the character of the locomotive itself, and even on the events which transpired, historians differ. Indeed, some doubt has hitherto existed as to the exact date of the opening of this short fifteen-mile line between Laprairie, Quebec, and St. Johns, near the head of Lake Champlain.

Faced with these difficulties, and in order to ensure the accuracy of this year's painting, The Royal Bank went to original sources. For the actual dimensions and structural details of the "Dorchester," which hauled the first train, the artist used the actual working drawings supplied by the firm of Robert Stephenson & Company, of Great Britain, from whose shops the "Dorchester" came early in 1836. For reliable information on the events of the day, reference was made to the following files of the Montreal "Courier" and "Gazette" for July 23, 1836, which carried complete eye-witness accounts. These accounts demonstrated clearly that the actual opening ceremony took place on Thursday, July 21, 1836, and that the locomotive "Dorchester," contrary to the generally held belief, did actually haul the train on that occasion.

They also revealed that prominent amongst those present were the Governor-General, the Earl of Gosford, Sir George Gipps, veteran of the peninsular war, and Sir Charles Grey, formerly a supreme judge of the Court of Madras. These three had come to Canada in 1835 as a commission to enquire into the grievances that were agitating the colony, and which were soon to culminate in open rebellion. Peter McGill, chairman of the railway company, and later mayor of Montreal, was also present.

The story, as it appeared in the "Gazette" of a hundred years ago, is reproduced in essence on the calendar pad. The relative dimensions of the "Dorchester" and a locomotive of the present day are also provided and strikingly demonstrate the pygmy size of Canada's first passenger locomotive.

Father Aberhart's love for newspapers is not improving. On Sunday he said he hoped there would be no newspapers in heaven and that they would get other jobs. Even at that we would imagine there would be more fun in hell than in heaven if he is to rule the roost like he does the Prophetic Bible Institute and the Legislature.—Coleman Journal.

The Alberta newspapers came in for a lot of criticism from the Premier recently. Like the Lethbridge Herald, we hold to the opinion that the newspapers have been as fair in their criticisms as the Premier has been in his criticisms. He thinks he's right, and some of the newspapers don't see it his way. Up to the moment both have the right to express their opinion, and just because the Premier holds the higher office is no reason for him to hold that the newspapers are always in error.—Clarholm Local Press.

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And this discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

FLEMING'S

LAWRENCE A. KEATINGE

Fleming's face was illumined momentarily as he lighted his cigarette. "I guess you're asleep" for plain truth. Stephen may seem Buzz away for awhile if he can. He's set against shooting, especially in town. Sort of anxious to make a complete of everyone that does it. Ames is a mighty good law officer and he figures to keep trouble down by acting kind of harsh. "I'll sure do something" about it if I can, but Ames goes his own way. Nobody can talk him out of anything. "He was thinking that not even Kilgo could swerve the stern law officer."

The girl nodded, her slender fingers held worriedly to her lips. "Perhaps," she murmured softly, "it will do Buzz good. Oh, I know how he is—he's weak. Buzz is easily led, and I just have a feeling he has come under the influence of someone the last two years, someone very strong-minded. It seems a terrible thing to say, and I don't want my brother put in prison." A shudder escaped her lips. "But—well, perhaps punishment, a small amount of it, will make a new man of Buzz."

"That's what might happen, and I sure wish it would. I'll do anything I can for you while he's gone, Helen. I mean like helpin' with the Triple H."

"Thank you." Then thoughtfully: "I shall be in charge of the ranch, ain't I? I suppose I can do anything necessary to improve it or keep it up."

About to mount his horse, Fleming paused. He squinted inquiringly at the lassie girl standing a few feet away, her face partly visible, partly in shadow. "What do you mean?"

"Why, Buzz and I own nine hundred acres out in the draw, don't we? Useless, barren land. Right next your seventeen hundred acres. How much do you suppose it would cost to dig irrigation ditches all through it, and build a small dam backing up Silver Creek into a sort of lake?"

With a low exclamation he dropped his reins and stepped nearer, to peer startledly down at her. "Do you mean you'd go against the advice of the only man who really knows irrigation around here—Torney?"

And your—well, Kilgo?"

Helen tossed her head. "I don't know. How much do you think it would cost?"

"Offhand I'd say fifteen thousand dollars."

The girl placed a hand at her bosom. "I have the first thousand right here, Link. If the others don't want to come in, we could form a partnership, couldn't we? Now don't you think you'd better go home?"

As he rode up to the corral on his own ranch, Fleming still was immersed in thought of the plucky girl's offer. But he frowned as he reflected that she could not realize the weight of public sentiment against them. Busybodies, ever eager to wag their tongues in speculation, would hint that the Star Loop owner had "talked Helen into it."

Dismounting, he unsaddled his buckskin and turned the animal into the corral. With saddle and bridle in his arms he started toward the ranch house. Yes, everyone would be dead set against it. There would be gossip aplenty that Link had persuaded Helen against her will, free prediction of bankruptcy and ruin.

He stopped suddenly. The saddle fell from his grasp and his hand sought the holstered sixgun at his side.

"Don't get 'tough, Link—it's me, Roper." A short, thick figure detached itself from the shadow of the low stoop and Kilgo stepped into a pool of faint moonlight, grinning. "Just wanted a little talk with you, he went on easily. 'Didn't mean to scare you, Link.'"

"I see." Surprise at the unexpectedness of the visit was masked in his next words. "Why sure, Roper, let's get inside and have a drink."

He picked up his saddle again and carried it to the stoop. Leading the way into his four-room clapboard ranch house, he lighted an oil lamp on a centre table of the living room. "Make yourself at home," he invited his guest.

Kilgo appeared to have something on his mind. He stood fingering his cartridge belt while he shifted weight. "Say, Link, this here is kind of a hard thing to talk about. Fact is," he blurted out, "I planned on ridin' home with Helen Hamilton when she came. I mean, it kind of took the wind outta my sails when you went gallivantin' off with her."

"Yuh see, Helen and I—Before you bought the Star Loop, I'd known her quite a spell. Always got along together good and all that. Some folks around the county'd tell you we're as good as married."

"That so? I didn't get quite that impression."

He flashed a quick look. "Course I know you wasn't wise to it. It makes me plumb sore to have interference, Link—like it does any man, I reckon. I'm known for a guy that don't allow interference. Specially with steers and girls. Yes, we're just about engaged, all right," he repeated significantly.

There was a short pause. "She's mighty nice. Pretty, too. Noticed that myself, first look I had of her."

Kilgo's eyes were evasive. "What 'I'm gettin' at is, I don't care to have you mix in my personal affairs, Fleming."

There was a truculent edge to his tone that the rancher did not miss. He tossed his hat on the table and rested a thigh over its corner. Swinging his legs to the ground, Roper with keen, understanding eyes. It was a plain warning, a command that he had just issued, and it rubbed Fleming the wrong way.

Seems almost like this engagement business is a mistake."

"Why, when folks go into business together, that's called a partnership. That seventeen hundred acres you let me win in a crooked poker game some time back needs water. It's going to be worth a hundred, maybe two hundred an acre some day for alfalfa. Helen'll be in charge of the Triple H now, and she has more advanced ideas than Buzz. We're thinkin' of pooling our resources to put on an irrigation project of our own, seeing you and the others don't believe in good old-fashioned water."

The effect of this announcement was startling. Kilgo's jaw went slack and his eyes roamed in wonder. A low growl began to start in his barrel-like chest; finally to burst from his lips with rage.

"Damn you!" he roared. "Yuh'll never do it!" Suddenly lifting one pudgy hand, he snatched off his sand-colored smock.

The sharp crack of a rifle was followed instantly by tinkling glass. Some impulse forever unexplained had made Fleming jerk from his seat on the table edge as Roper grabbed his hat. Perhaps he thought the visitor meant to whip out his six-gun—Link could not tell afterward. But the next moment the mass of brown hair on his head flicked sharply. The bullet's speed sent a light breeze along his temple and instinctively he ducked. With a low thud the slug buried itself in the far wall.

"Don't move!"

Brittle with stern tension, Fleming stared down the barrel of his forty-five. "Don't make another signal, understand? Get over there—against that window. If anybody's going to get shot by your skunk assassin, it isn't going to be me."

"He was safe from windows, him?"

"What the devil yuh talkin' about? Yuh mean to say—"

"Grabbin' your hat was a signal. Some gent outside was waitin' for it. He tried to murder me. That's what I'm talkin' about, Roper."

The Box 50 owner's round, red face dulled. If it had not been that Link was covering him, watching his every move with hawk-like vigilance, he would have drawn and slain his host with venal speed. But there was no opening, no chance to accomplish it, and after an uncertain twitching of his thick shoulders the man gulped and forced resentment from his face.

"I—uh, goldam it, Link, yuh're all wrong! Say, I wouldn't fix up to murder anybody, man! What the devil—"

He waved his hands as if unable to express himself in words. "Come on, let's go after the guy. I'll prove to yuh I did it."

The door burst open and Waco Byrne, one of the Star Loop hands, stepped in gripping a sixgun in each brawny fist. "Heard shootin', Boss, and glass. What happened?"

"Someone tried to get me, but he missed. Say, you take two or three of the boys and go after him. He shot from the south; reckon he must have hid behind the table. That gent can't be far off yet. Grab him!"

The door slammed as the puncher hurried to comply. Fleming watched his visitor with sharp suspicion. Finally, concluding it was safe to do so, he holstered his gun. "Thanks for your offer to hunt that gucker, Kilgo, but I guess my men can do the job all right. You in a hurry to go?"

As if mustering his courage, Roper shuffled forward. "Aw, that's a helluva way, suspectin' a guy!" he protested. "If I wanted you dead why wouldn't I have done it myself?"

"Because I'm not so slow drawin' for one thing. And one of my men may have seen you come here, so it would be a bit hard to explain."

An Old Document

Believed To Have Been Written By
Robert Bruce In 1272

The last 600 years have seen many momentous events in the history of the world and the average person today would feel a sense of awe were he to receive a letter that he knew had been written by a man who lived in the 13th century; yet the believed words of Robert Bruce predated to the throne of Scotland in 1286, are to be seen on a sheet of paper pasted to the back of a shingle bearing an armorial ensign, owned by Alexander D. Fullarton of Willsburgh, New Brunswick.

The ensign, which is the armorial insignia of the clan of Fullarton, and was presented, so far as can be made out from the faded writing, for services rendered by the clan in battle, was presented in the year 1272 A.D. by Robert Bruce, at that time recognized in Scotland as king. The arms of the clan are on the front of the shingle to which they were apparently stuck when presented, and are still very clear.

The written account which accompanied them is attached to the back of the shingle and is much faded, it being hard for a reader to-day to follow the trend. Much of the latter part of the message is nearly lost. It is obvious, however, from that which is legible, that the king is praising one "reginald fullarton" (the words are not capitalized, following the custom of the time) for his deeds in battle, though it is not very clear whether the figure was done in a war or in one of the clan feuds, which were frequent at that time. The date 1272 is clear, and the writing, supposed to be that of the famed Bruce, although easy to read originally, would be not much better than a "schoolboy hand" to-day.

A cup of silver, lined with gold, was also presented at the time of the presentation of the shingle. It is also in the possession of Mr. Fullarton. It is about four inches high and perfectly plain save for the arms of the family, which are engraved on front.

National Scholarships

Federal Government To Be Asked To Endorse The Plan

A measure to introduce national scholarships for brilliant students who were unable to attend university because of lack of funds will be introduced in the House of Commons at the next session. A. E. Corrigan of Ottawa told the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

Mr. Corrigan asked for the support of the federation, explaining that more than 80 per cent of Canadian leaders are produced from less than the one per cent of scholars who attend university. Of the 80 per cent, who leave school at matriculation, there must be many more brilliant ones than those who continue, he said.

Mr. Corrigan said there was little doubt but that the measure would receive the endorsement of parliament. He was assured by the managements of many large financial businesses, he said, that employment would readily be offered all national scholars.

"It is a matter of extreme urgency for the national well-being that we mobilize the brains of the country and turn its resources into wealth," Mr. Corrigan asserted. He proposed that 1,000 national scholarships, valued at $400 annually with free tuition, be awarded by the Dominion government. National scholars would be chosen because of mental and intellectual gifts and character and temperament. Mr. Corrigan said he hoped to obtain the support of 25 universities in the scheme.

Dieticians Say Only Heavy Worker

The glorious, steaming plum pudding, tail-end of every traditional Christmas dinner, stands convicted as notoriously incorrect and far too heavy for anyone whose task is lighter than ditch-digging in this work-a-day world.

The judges were Mrs. E. B. Rutter, professor of Household Science at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, for many years, and Dr. J. S. Brown, specialist in children's ailments.

It was Dr. Brown who made the reference to ditch-digging. After condemning plum pudding as "really a terrible pudding" a plateful of which was a meal in itself, the specialist admitted the meal should depend upon "size of the eater."

"For a laboring man, digging ditches, there would be no harm in a meal of turkey, plum pudding, nuts and candy. The man who can afford these things is the man who should not eat them, and those who cannot afford them are those who should," he said.

Professor Rutter declared the plum pudding far too heavy a dish to follow the turkey. When nuts, raisins and candy were added, as usually, the meal became "really terrible" from a scientific nutritional point of view.

"Of course one cannot apply the dictates of nutrition to a traditional menu," Mrs. Rutter admitted. "Perhaps it is all right once a year, but it would be far better to follow the roast turkey with a light roast dessert and have the pudding the next day with a little cold turkey."

"Of course there are plum puddings and plum puddings," Mrs. Rutter went on. The tendency now is to replace some of the stout by graded flour, carrots and potatoes. The pudding need not be so highly spiced. Such puddings are far better for children."

Animals Going Modern

Hawks Defend On Motorists To Kill
Gophers For Them

Hawks are not bothering to kill gophers any more. The automobile is doing it for them, Dan McCowan, famed naturalist, said.

Years ago they used to float lazily over the prairie, waiting to pounce on an unwary gopher. Now they perch on roadside telephone poles, waiting for speeding automobiles to play the part of executioner.

It was just an example, Dan said, of how animals are going modern. Similarly, he said, magpies and crows are to be found on fence posts, waiting also, for the automobiles that daily slaughter several hundred gophers on the Banff-Calgary highway.

Dan couldn't say why gophers never learned. They continued to play around the highways and apparently unable to estimate the speed of an automobile, were slaughtered in hundreds.

Similar evidence was to be found along the railways, he said. There mice found kernels of grain dropped by lurching grain trains. Other animals followed them among them the squirrels.

The squirrel found, however, there were no trees nearby that offered protection from hawks. However, they soon overcame that. They confined their foraging to the vicinity of telephone poles. When a hawk appeared the squirrel scampered up the pole. A score of wires prevented the hawk from reaching him.

A little boy, after his first day at school, was questioned as to what happened the first day.

"Nothing much," he said, except that a lady there who didn't know how to spell 'cat,' asked me how, and I told her.

Pasteurization is an important step in the manufacture of wine.

Little Helps For This Week

Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions; According to Thy mercy remember Thou me, for Thy goodness's sake O Lord. Psalm 25:7.

When on my aching burdened heart

My sins lie heavily;

My pardon speak, new peace impart.

In love remember me.

We need to know that our sins are forgiven, and the only way we can know this is to feel that we have the peace of God, that we are so able to trust in the divine compassion and infinite tenderness of our Father we are able to go to Him whenever we cannot sin and say at once to Him "Father I have sinned, forgive me."

To know we are forgiven it is only necessary to look at our Father's love until it sinks into our heart, to open our soul to Him till He shall pour His love into it, to wait on Him until we find peace, till the weight of responsibility ceases to be an oppressive burden to us, till we can feel that our sins, great as they are, cannot keep us away from our Heavenly Father.

Four Eclipses

Two Of The Sun And Two Of The Moon In 1936

Four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon, are due in 1936, but only one of them will be visible in Canada, that only in the northwestern section of the Dominion.

Early in January there was a total eclipse of the moon, the beginning of it was visible in northwestern Canada. On June 18 there will be a total eclipse of the sun; July 4 a partial eclipse of the moon; Dec. 13 an eclipse of the sun, none of the three being visible to Canadians.

Game authorities have found that foxes are not wanted destroyers of quail, as popularly believed.

AN UNFAIR REGULATION
(From The Hanna Herald)

Action of the Aberhart government in banning liquor advertising from Alberta newspapers and periodicals is so unfair to provincial publications, so devoid of reason, that it is the subject of critical comment from coast to coast.

The reason offered by Premier Aberhart for banning liquor advertising in this province is a "moral" one. He says he does not want such advertising flaunted before the youth of the province.

But, can Premier Aberhart accomplish what he wishes to do? Can he prevent such advertising being read by Albertans?

He can not.
Hundreds of tons of newspapers will continue coming into this province, and these papers will profit through advertising revenue of which Alberta publishers are deprived.

Premier Aberhart's sword thrust at Alberta newspapers can accomplish little more than impoverishing the Press for which he repeatedly expresses a dislike—a hearty dislike for a Press which cherishes its freedom and is uncontrolled by any political party or group.

A reasonable view of this liquor advertising ban is taken by the Financial Post, Toronto, and what is true of one province in this connection is equally true of another. The Post says, editorially, in a recent issue:

"The provincial government of Ontario may consider it socially desirable to prevent the people of the province from being exposed to liquor advertising. But the simple fact is that the province has no constitutional power to enforce its feelings in the matter. It can do no more than provide that there shall be no liquor advertising in publications distributed from a point within the province. And that regulation, which is in fact in force, applies to only a fractional proportion of the periodical reading matter of Ontario citizens. Thus its effect is to penalize workers in Ontario printing and publishing plants and to divert wages from Ontario to other provinces."

"The Ontario anti-liquor advertising regulation has become ever more farcical as a result of the change in the magazine tariff. Tons of advertising literature are now descending on Ontario, as on other provinces in the form of American magazines. Most of these carry a very large quantity of liquor advertising."

"For the provinces to control the actual sale of liquor within their boundaries is reasonable and equitable enough. But they attempt the impossible when they try to forbid advertising of liquor in periodicals, for they can only control a small group of such periodicals and cannot control the periodicals which compete with those printed within the province."

"If there is to be control of liquor advertising it should be Dominion control, through the criminal code, buttressed by the absolute prohibition of importation of any periodicals carrying such advertising. Unless and until some such plan proves both feasible and generally acceptable to the public, the province should abolish its feeble and inequitable attempts to ban liquor ads."

A certain Scout master sent his neckerchief to a laundry. It was returned beautifully clean and new. Curious to know in what category it was listed and charged, he referred to the laundry list. He found it under the heading "Bibs and Feeders."

HAIR SPLITTING

Last, Surdja's ether was full of 'blue beans' fired at the press by Premier Aberhart while "broadcasting" the Sunday afternoon service of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute over radio station CFCE, "the voice of the prairies." Newspapers, magazines etc., were declared to constitute "a nuisance" by Alberta's social credit premier. The founder of the new provincial political party was full of wrath, the fullness thereof probably being known best by the objects of this Sunday afternoon's straffe from the pulpit.

And what was it all about?

A national magazine had recently carried the first instalment of an impartial survey of Alberta Social Credit. In illustrating the feature, a photograph of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute was displayed, under which description ended with these words: "It houses radio station CFCE."

Literally, the magazine was in error. The tubes and other broadcasting equipment of CFCE are really not "housed" in the Institute. It would have been more accurate to have stated that broadcasting station CFCE revolves around, and has its very being in the microphone which is a fixture upon the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute's pulpit or rostrum, and over which Social Credit propaganda is featured as one of the most prominent in the Institute's bag of tricks.

Splitting hairs, Premier Aberhart indignantly denied that this CFCE station was located in the Bible Institute, but that it was situated "in the town of Strathmore." By the Social Credit leader's own yardstick, he is as guilty of error as is "the press" about which he complains. While CFCE broadcasting station may not be "housed" in Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute, as a magazine article stated, neither is the plant located "in the town of Strathmore," as Mr. Aberhart so vehemently averred. Actually it is approximately one and one-eighth miles distant from the latter point mentioned.

By straining at a gnat, as in this instance, Premier Aberhart reminds us of that admonition contained in Matthew's Oratory & Orators, chap. II, p.36, which runs:

"Nothing is more fatal to eloquence than attention to fine hair-splitting distinctions."—The Hanna Herald.

A typical Alberta yarn is told this week by the Grande Prairie Herald. It illustrates the quickness with which the winds dry up our rainfall. "Bill Williams was said to have come into Calgary with a buckskin harness on his team. Going home, with his boy riding one of the horses, rain overtook them, and the harness stretched so badly that the horses and his boy went on home, the lines and traces stretching until Bill and his wagon were a couple of miles behind. The boy unharnessed the horses on the usual pegs, and then the sun came out, the harness dried out so rapidly that the wagon was brought home with a jerk and poor old Bill hit the side of the barn so hard he had to be taken to hospital."—High River Times.

The year 1935 marked the 400th anniversary of the first printed English Bible. There came in October, 1335, from Froben's Press at Zurich, the first copies of Miles Coverdale's Bible. It was based largely upon the translations of Luther, Tyndale and others, but for all was a distinctly English translation with virtues not possessed by its forerunners.

In recognition of this centenary, the British and Foreign Bible Society made an appeal to churches for prayer and thanksgiving on Sunday, December 8th, and the appeal was met with wholehearted approval of clergymen everywhere. The Archbishop of Canterbury and many statesmen, including Premier Stanley Baldwin and Lord Tweedsmuir, new governor-general of Canada, gave the idea their full and hearty support.

Since Mr. Hungerford's lengthy railway career has been associated with the Motive Power department for so many years, the title was appropriate. The ceremony was performed in The Besborough immediately after the official opening of the hotel in Saskatoon.

THE GOSSIPING DAME

St. Peter stood watching the Pearly Gates
As he had for years untold,
He sighed as he cast an anxious eye
On the Pillars of Pearl and Gold;
There was something that seemed to trouble him
As he glanced at the vaulted dome,
So slowly he turned and made his way
To the foot of the great white throne.
But ere he reached the steps to the throne
A bell by the gate did ring,
And the great white portals opened wide
And an angel entered in;
He was tall and thin and robed in white,
On his brow was a look of care
And he spoke in a voice that was very soft,
Saying, the one you expected is here.
St. Peter stroked his beard for a while,
Then slowly turned and said,
You can bring her in for a minute or two,
But it is a task I dread;
I don't know why she was sent up
here,
When she should go down below,
But perhaps the Devil has kicked her out,
And she has no place else to go.
And the angel departed, St. Peter sat down—
On a seat by the great white gate,
Then very soon the portals swung
wide
And a woman entered the place.
She was tall and thin and her hair
was black,
Aid her nose was long and thin,
But her eyes did flash with a dangerous gleam
As she quickly stepped within.
St. Peter arose from his seat by the gate
And his face was set and grim,
As he asked this woman her business there,
Where none but the good come in.
I know that your name is written
here
In this book with its pages wide;
But I fear that your tongue has doomed your soul,
So down below you must bide!
With a mortal fear upon her face
She turned to St. Peter and said,
I have lived a moral and goodly life
And always my Bible read;
I have never drank or never smoked
Or never played a card;
And I never danced in all my life,
Or a hungry one denied.
I always went to church, Dear Sir,
And Sunday School as well.
I even wear my skirts down long
You can see it's the truth I tell.
I was never kissed by any man,
Or held in a man's embrace;
And I always put a nickel in
When they passed the collection plate.
St. Peter turned and raised his hand,
And his voice rang thro' the hall;
And he said, You have named some things you've done
But you did not name them all.
You are charged here with a gossip-
ing tongue,
And with spreading scandal and lies.
How many lies did you tell on earth
To help wreck innocent lives?
The choicest morsel upon your tongue
Was a bit of gossip you told;
Like a dart it pierced the human heart
Of some neighbors, poor and old.
Or perhaps it was some innocent lass
Just full of harmless fun—
Whose life was blackened by the lies
Spread by your gossiping tongue.
Your greatest delight while down on earth
Was to talk of your neighbor's faults;
And many a poor and unfortunate one
Was hurt without any cause;
For your mind is warped and your heart is black,
And your soul is full of shame,
And the biggest sinner that's entered

here

Is called a gossiping dame.

As St. Peter ceased speaking, the phone did ring
And he quickly answered, Hello,
You are wanted, St. Peter, thus Central did say,
It's a long distance call from below.
His Satanic Majesty sends his respects,
And asks this great favor of you:
Not to send him the one who is now
at the gate,
As no gossips are wanted below.
Then good old St. Peter slammed up the phone
And turned to the one standing there,
Saying, you got yourself in a H—
of a fix
The Devil don't want you down
there,
And I've been forbidden to allow you
in here
For to sit by the great white throne.
Here's an order on Hades for brimstone and gas,
So go start a H— of your own.

ORIGIN OF NAME OF ALBERTA

Among the names of the provinces of Canada, Alberta possesses a stateliness and a charm exceeded by the designation of none other. Alberta was named after the wife of the Marquis of Lorne, who was governor-general of Canada at the time the province came into being. The lady was the fourth daughter of Queen
Victoria and her name was Princess Louise Caroline Alberta; and she, doubtless, was named after her father, Prince Albert.

The Marquis of Lorne, in his "Memories of Canada and Scotland," says:
"In token of the love which thou has shown,

For this wide land of freedom, I have named
A province vast, and for its beauty famed,

Alberta shall it be. Her fountains thrown
From Alps unto three oceans, to all men

Shall vaunt her loveliness e'en now;
and when
Each hamlet to a city is grown,
And numberless as blades of prairie grass.

Or the thick leaves in distant forest
bower,
Great people hear the giant currents
pass,

Still shall the waters, bringing wealth and power,
Speak the loved name—the land of silver springs—
Worthy the daughter of our English kings."

Again the motorist gets it in the neck. In Alberta it will be necessary to buy a driver's license at the cost of $1.00 per year. This will likely contribute from a hundred and fifty to two hundred thousand dollars a year to the Alberta government revenues, from a source that is already bearing more than a fair share of the province's taxation. However, if the government will lay down a few miles of dustless hard-surfaced roads we will pay as long as we are able and make believe it's Social Credit.

BAPTISTE AT THE BONSPIEL

De noder day a frien' of mine,
He say "Bateese" to me,
"Why don't you go upon de rink
For see bonspiel?" says he;
"Dere's plenty chair for sit-upon De place she's nice and warm."
And so at las' I tink I go,
She can't do me no harm.
Wall, dat is mos' foolish game
I never yet did see.
For all de men was yell so loud
I tink dey go craze.
Dey have de stone like big spittoon
An' above it wit' der han'
But w'y dey get so much excite
I cannot understand.
De man down at de noder en'
Ees put hie's broom down so,
An' den he yell "Now tak' dat ice!"
Dat's foolish 'ting, you know.
He can not tak' de ice away—
She's frozen down so hard;
But still he yell, "Yes, tak' her out."
I do not want de gard.
An' see dem feller sweep de broom—
For w'y I can not tell,
Dere's no dirt upon de ice.
An' den some feller yell:
"Yes, hold her up!"—say, w'at he mean?

Madam's not here at all,
An' man'selle in de gallerie
I do not see her fall!
All sort of feller play dat game,
Dere's some dat's 'in an' long,
An' some dat's maybe short an'
stout,

An' some dat's pretty strong;
But w'en dey yell de stout man's wide

An' man dat's long an' tall
"He's narrow, sure," I do not tink
I stan' for dat at all.

I wonder w'at dat name she's mean,
Well, "bon" in French, she's "good,"
An' "spiel" is Scotch for mak' beeg talk,

An' may be she's not good.
I s'pose she's sort of half-breed
name.

I apik de way I feel—
I watch dat game for two, t'ree night—

I tink she's mostly "spiel!"

ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPOKE

We'll begin with a box; the plural is boxes.
But the plural of ox should be oxen,
not oxes;

One fowl is a goose, and two are called geese,
Yet the plural of moose should never be mease.

You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice,
But the plural of house is houses,
not hiee.

If the plural of man is always called
men
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen

The cow in the plural may be called cows or kine
But a bow, if repeated, is never called bine.

If I speak of a foot and you show me two feet
And I give you a boot, would a pair
be called beet

If one is a tooth and a whole set are teeth
Why shouldn't the plural of both be called beeth

If the singular's this and the plural is these,
Should the plural of kias ever be written kease

Then one may be that, and the two may be those,
Yet hat in the plural would never be hose,

And the plural of cat is cats and not cose.
We speak of a brother and also of brethren

But though we say mother we seldom say methren.
Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him.

EMPRESS Re-Designed for Cruises

By the installation of a permanent tiled swimming pool, increased deck space, and a Lido Cafe, the Empress of Australia, famous former world cruise liner of the Canadian Pacific, is being fitted for her three months West Indies cruise season in 1936.

The whole after-end of the 21,000 ton, three-funnelled liner is now being remodelled in England, and the structural changes being carried out will result in the addition of many square feet of deck space on "A" deck, an enlarged shelter promenade on "B" deck, and a spacious Cafe facing a tiled open-air pool, which will be the central feature of the new sports deck.

The tiled swimming pool will have an area of 750 square feet. It will be 25 feet long and 30 feet wide. Gay umbrellas and comfortable lounges will be dotted about the deck for sun-bathers, and provision is being made for an additional full-size deck tennis court. The Lido deck extends to the stern of the ship.

1936 schedules for the Empress of Australia, in addition to the West Indies season of five cruises, leaving New York in January, February, March, and April, provide for a number of Scandinavian and Southern cruises during the summer. To provide additional comfort during the months the Empress of Australia's passengers will spend in tropical temperatures, additional ventilators is being provided for. Bathrooms are being added to a number of the bedrooms.

The Empress of Australia's West Indies cruise departures from New York will be January 23rd, February 12th, February 25th, March 21st, and April 8th, for cruises of 15 days, 16 days, and 10 days in length.

Photographs show a merry tea party, a before-dinner gathering on the new shelter deck, and a deck quilts game.

ITALY IS CALLING MORE VOLUNTEERS FOR AIR SERVICE

Rome.—Italy called for 5,700 volunteers for her air service in what Fascists said was "the greatest aerial enlistment in history."

The air ministry asked for 1,500 pilots and 4,200 base experts.

Italy has officially expressed regret for the bombardment of a Swedish Red Cross unit, but warned Sweden against "tendentious versions of the incident." It was "disloyal."

New and undisclosed "scientific weapons" may be pressed into Italy's fight against Ethiopia, a reliable source said.

Italy has a vast quantity of these weapons, which thus far she has been reluctant to use, the informant said. But Ethiopia war practices may make it necessary to bring the new instrument into play, he asserted.

A violent Fascist campaign from the air, some observers predicted, might come as "punishment" for the alleged decapitation by Ethiopian warriors of Italian flyers.

It was disclosed the bombing of a Swedish ambulance unit was in retaliation for the alleged decapitation of a pilot.

(An Ethiopian communiqué said 28 Ethiopians were killed and two Swedish physicians wounded in the air raid).

Dessey, Ethiopia.—Six Italian war flyers were killed when Ethiopian sharpshooters brought down two enemy planes on the northern front, official announcement asserted here.

The reports roused fear in some quarters of further attacks against Red Cross hospitals and aid stations.

It was recalled here Italian authorities had asserted the bombardment which wrecked the Swedish ambulance unit on the southeastern front near Dolo was in direct retaliation for recent beheading of two Italian pilots whose plane was brought down at Daggah Bur.

Of the two planes shot down, one was crippled by Ethiopian snipers when it flew low over Kebetia, a settlement in the Wollo region in northwestern Ethiopia. Four airmen reportedly died in the crash. They were said to have attacked Kebetia's civil population. The flyers were burned to death in the plane.

Two other Italian airmen were reported killed in a plane which was forced into a crash by a tribal sharpshooter in one of the armies surrounding Makale.

Want Basic Dividends

Reported Demand Will Be Made By Delegation To Alberta Government

Edmonton.—Demands will be made by a large delegation upon after the session of the Alberta house opens on Feb. 6 for payment of the $25 dividend which, it is felt, was promised by Premier Aberhart during the provincial election campaign, says A. S. Shandro, organizer for the Alberta Basic Dividends Association.

"We are preparing to organize locals all over the province to carry on the work," says Mr. Shandro.

Automobile Mortality

Chicago.—Safety campaigns designed to reduce the 1935 automobile mortality total on United States highways by 35 per cent. got away to a poor start on New Year's Day. Statistics showed at least 93 persons died in automobile accidents compared with 98 on Jan. 1, 1935, or a drop of slightly better than five per cent. The figures were incomplete and unofficial.

Woman Carries Mail

Juneau, Alaska.—A wife of a woman is musing 700 miles across Alaska's frozen tundras, carrying the mail to Fairbanks—"to see if a girl could do it." Mary Joyce arrived safely Dec. 31 at Tulequah at the end of the first lap of the trip which began at Taku, December 20, a message said.

New Year Honors

No Canadians Appear In List Announced In London

London.—Two barons are raised to the rank of viscount, while the king has been pleased to create four new barons, two privy councillors and four baronets. It was announced in the New Year honors list. One Order of Merit and about four score knight-hoods are also included in the long list of those whom His Majesty honors on New Year's Day.

After two years' inclusion, Canada again disappears from the list. In a special supplement of the London Gazette, the Union of South Africa and the Irish Free State are also represented.

Extending over 18 printed pages the supplement covers the United Kingdom, India, the colonies and protectorates as well as Australia and New Zealand.

Two of the king's sons appear in the list. The second, the Duke of York, is given a triple promotion becoming vice-admiral of the fleet, lieutenant-general in the army and marshal in the royal air force. The king's fourth son, the Duke of Kent, receives the Royal Victorian chain.

Elevated to be viscounts are Lord Hanworth, former master of the rolls, and Lord Trenchard, former commissioner of the Metropolitan police.

Lord Hanworth is a member of the Pollock family, famous in English legal history for the number of its judges and lawyers. Until recently, he presided over the court of appeal, previously having served as solicitor-general and attorney-general.

Imperial Airways Crash

Nine Passengers And Three Members Of Crew Perish

London.—Hope was abandoned for 12 persons lost in the Mediterranean crash of the Imperial Airways liner City of Khartoum.

Crate-carrying tugs worked in 13 fathoms of water off Alexandria, Egypt, attempting to raise the liner and find the bodies of the victims.

The nine passengers and three members of the crew plunged with the plane beneath the sea a few minutes after an Alexandria landing, apparently with all three motors dead. The only survivor, Pilot Vernon Gorry Wilson, was in a critical condition aboard H.M.S. Brilliant, which took him from the water.

Two women were among the passengers, all but two of whom were burned. One was an Italian and one an American.

Pilot Wilson, who was in the water for five hours before the Brilliant found him, was too weak to be questioned as to the cause of the tragedy, the worst Imperial Airways accident in two years.

The admiralty, however, said in a statement, "The crash apparently was due to all three engines cutting out."

Imperial Airways deeply regrets their flying boat, City of Khartoum, flying from Athens to Alexandria, came ashore at sea about 15 miles off Alexandria and was lost. Hope must now be abandoned for there being any other survivors.

"Until the wreckage is salvaged and full inquiries made, the cause of the accident cannot be ascertained."

Conference To Continue

Several Committees Of Dominion-Provincial Parley To Meet

Ottawa.—A miniature Dominion-provincial conference will open here this month to continue the work of the main conference, held earlier this month. Several continuing committees of the conference will meet, probably at the same time to consider financial relations between the Dominion and the provinces, the British North America Act, agriculture, mining and highways.

It is expected these committees will meet as early as possible so the result of their deliberations will be available when parliament assembles.

Regulations Lifted

Moscow.—Regulations which have barred children of "non-tolerant" and disfranchised persons from Soviet high schools and colleges have been lifted by order of the government. Families of former kulaks, merchants and members of the political opposition will chiefly benefit.

Mayor Of Toronto

Sam McBride Is Elected To Chief Magistrate's Office

Toronto.—Sam McBride, mayor of Toronto in 1928 and 1929, was returned to the chief magistrate's office over two opponents in the civic elections.

Vanquished were James Simpson, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation mayor of 1935, and former Alderman Harry W. Hunt, owner of a chain of confectionery stores.

Complete returns from the city's 763 subdivisions gave McBride 48,728 votes; Hunt 43,936; and Simpson 32,636.

Returns showed Ralph C. Day was high man in the vote for board of control, ensuring his return to office for another term. W. J. Wadsworth and W. D. Robbins, both members of last year's board of control, also were voted back into office, while former Controller George Ramsden, who lost out in the mayoralty election in 1934, eased into the seat of board of control left open by Mayor-elect McBride's step up. Mr. McBride was a controller in 1935.

Toronto's mayor-elect is the dean of city council. He was elected alderman for ward three in 1905 and represented that district, the main business section of the city, until 1918. He served on board of control in 1918, 1919, 1926 and from 1932 to 1935.

REDUCED TARIFF RATES ON CATTLE NOW IN EFFECT

Washington.—Although the reduced tariff rates which became effective on some classes of cattle imports from Canada are available also to Mexican shippers, a state department spokesman said Mexico has virtually no cattle of the weights affected.

Under the Canadian-American trade treaty the rate on cattle weighing 700 pounds or more each was cut from three cents to two cents a pound, and the rate on a limited quantity of calves weighing less than 775 pounds each was reduced from 2½ cents to 1½ cents a pound.

The duty on dairy cows weighing 700 pounds or more each was dropped from three to 1½ cents.

These concessions were extended automatically to other countries, under the exception of Germany, under the administration's policy of giving to all countries which do not discriminate against American trade the same treatment accorded "the most favored" nation.

The department spokesman said, however, the weights specified in the Canadian treaty were selected carefully so that only Canada would benefit.

Prepare For Emergency

Victoria.—Canada was warned by Premier Pattullo of British Columbia in a New Year's message to be prepared to face any contingency that may arise from European strife. The premier also urged development of the Dominion's export markets, a program of public works to relieve unemployment and an immigration policy.

Ottawa Levee

Many Attend Governor-General's Reception On New Year's Day

Ottawa.—Nearly 1,000 men attended the governor-general's levee to shake hands with Baron Tweedsmuir and wish him a happy New Year. The most largely attended levee of recent years, it was held in the Hall of Fame of the parliament building beginning shortly after noon.

Next to the governor-general's levee, the largest reception were those held by Premier Mackenzie King at Laurier House in the afternoon and that of Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett, in his hotel at the same time. Since foreign countries established legations here it had been their custom also to hold their receptions in the afternoon but the diplomatic corps' reception were in the forenoon.

Since 1932 he has also held the rank of an air vice-marshal in the Royal Air Force and a major-general in the army. He is a personal aide-camp to the King.

Riots In Cairo

Police And Troops Guard Public Buildings

Cairo.—Heavy detachments of police and troops were posted around British and Egyptian government buildings as 2,000 Nationalist students again paraded through the streets shouting "Down with England."

Nahas Pasha, Nationalist leader, said in an interview that British High Commissioner Sir Miles Lampson had informed him Great Britain was willing to open negotiations for regulation of the Anglo-Egyptian question.

He quoted Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, as informing the high commissioner that because of the international crisis he had been unable to undertake a complete study of the Egyptian question, but that Great Britain had no objection to negotiating with a constitutional, Egyptian government.

In an effort to check the crowd of students pouring into the capital from the provinces, authorities closed all bridges across the Nile except Zamalek bridge, where strong detachments of police were centred.

Acting to halt a repetition of the demonstrations which marred the opening of the 10th International Surgery conference, authorities put police guards around the convention hall and closed the University of Cairo's medical school until next week.

The government issued a warning to students that further disorders would be met by "energetic steps" and appealed to them to stop political agitation and return to their classes.

Pleased With Acclamation

Federal Minister Of Finance Expresses Thanks At Banquet

Charlottetown.—Minister of Finance C. A. Dunning expressed thanks for the acclamation that will send him to the House of Commons as one of Queen's county's two representatives.

His gratitude was voiced at a banquet of the Queen's County Liberal Association a few hours after nominations for the Queen's by-election had closed with only Mr. Dunning's papers on file. Conservatives had decided not to contest the seat thrown open when J. J. Larabee resigned so the minister could enter parliament.

"I'll try to discharge my functions of judge in deciding what is justice for Prince Edward Island," Mr. Dunning said, "and I think it will be justice tempered with a measure of generosity."

PROTESTS FROM ETHIOPIA ABOUT ITALIAN BOMBING

Imperial Ethiopian Headquarters, Dessey, Emperor Haile Selassie called for "unpunished" Italy to be brought to account before the League of Nations for alleged poison gas warfare and destruction of a Swedish ambulance by Fascist war planes on the southern battle front.

"We again protest most explicitly against the criminal acts of the Italian government," said the emperor's note, relayed to Geneva from this field headquarters city, itself the target of Italian air bombs which struck a hospital and Red Cross tents Dec. 6.

The Negus charged specifically that Italian flyers, in raining explosives on the southern army of his son-in-law, Ras Desta Demtu, near Dolo, used poison gas and completely destroyed a Swedish Red Cross ambulance laden with sick and wounded.

Other officials said numerous natives were gassed in the raid and that Dr. Hylander, chief of the Swedish Red Cross in the Ogaden, was wounded gravely.

Starts Half-Holidays

Yorkton, Sask.—From New Year's Day until the end of August, Wednesday afternoons will be holidays for business houses and their employees in this city. ## Hospital Plans For Ethiopian

The plans are being presented to Ethiopians by the British Red Cross organization and the British League of Nations Union.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE PLANNING FOR JOINT ACTION

London.—Official quarters reported naval, military and air attaches of Great Britain and France are working out joint tactical plans "in case of an emergency."

Some newspapers here have reported details of a purported British plan to aid France in case of an attack on the continent. Informed observers said details of the negotiations could not yet be divulged, however.

It was emphasized in official quarters the joint conferences were confined to consideration of reprisals arising from the application of sanctions and that would not cover hypothetical attacks not arising from legal sanctions.

Inasmuch as France has not called for mutual aid from Great Britain since her note of last September, when she asked for a statement of Britain's mutual aid policy, the proffered French aid will for the present be restricted mainly to naval support, it was understood.

Floods In England

Worst Floods In Years Cause Havoc In Thames Valley

London.—The worst flood in recent years sweeping through the upper Thames valley left hundreds of persons homeless and caused property damage estimated at several million dollars not far from the environs of London.

At Teddington the river rose to nearly 40 feet during the last 24 hours and residents were being removed by police and firemen in rowboats from their homes on the flooded streets.

After several days' continuous rain the weather cleared a few hours, but falling barometers at night spread new fears of additional precipitation.

Rail traffic on the Great Western railway's main line to western England was halted while emergency workers attempted to reinforce a large bridge in Wiltshire carrying the Devizes-Salisbury road over the tracks. The bridge has threatened to give way.

Departments Will Be Added

Two New Branches For Training Of Mounted Police

Ottawa.—Two departments will be added shortly to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to place the force on a footing with Scotland Yard and the American government's G-Men, it was indicated by Sir James MacBrien, commissioner.

The training school will deal with scientific crime detection, featuring ballistic, photographic and pathological instructions. The co-operation of some universities will be sought in establishment of this branch.

A training school for constables also will be established to instruct the men in crime detection, police duties and criminal law.

Search For Ellsworth

Steamship Is Sent By British And Australian Governments

Dunedin, New Zealand.—A steamship, dispatched by the British and Australian governments, sailed for the Antarctic to search for Lincoln Ellsworth, United States explorer, who has been missing for more than a month, and his Canadian pilot.

Two aeroplanes were aboard the vessel, Discovery II, along with large supplies of food and medicine.

The 1,036-ton ship will go to the Bay of Whales, in the Ross sea. If Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, of Winnipeg, have not been found by then, the two aeroplanes aboard the Discovery II will be used for searching flights.

Pleanty Cold Up Above

Toronto.—Ninety-nine degrees below zero is the temperature you'd better be prepared to face if you want to go soaring into the stratosphere above Canada. At least that's the record the Dominion meteorological bureau has registered in tests that also have established an altitude record of 97,750 feet—more than 18 miles.
